

I don't comment on many things, however this topic is very important to me. If a person desires to NOT be bothered at home or at work with unwanted phone solicitations, I firmly believe that should be a right. If it is so important of a matter, it should be put in writing by the solicitor and mailed. That way potential purchasers have time to investigate, inquire further if interested and make an informed decision.